PROPOSALS

For Publishing, by Subscription,

THE COMPLETE WORKS OF

SIR WALTER SCOTT:

With a Biography: being the first American (and only) edition which contains the Author's last additions and illustrations, arranged upon their respective pages.

A COMPLETE and uniform edition of the various productions of the great 'Minstrel of the North,' is a desideratum with the American public. No library is complete without them, and no edition extant is sufficiently compact for such a repository; while the endless number of editions, without any uniformity in size, heretofore published, besides being exceedingly cumbrous, are far too voluminous and expensive to be within the reach of the great majority of readers. The undersigned therefore announce, that they have now in press, and will issue, an edition of the Works of Sir Walter Scott, which will embrace all his Poems, Novels, Histories, Biographies, and Fugitive Compositions, as well as the Biography and Private Correspondence, now in the course of publication in England, under the superintendence of Mr. Lockhart.

1st. In Parts: each Part embracing as much matter as is contained in two volumes of the present editions of the Waverley Novels, which will be put at the unprecedented low price of THIRTY SEVEN AND A HALF CENTS.

2d. Two parts will appear each month; but should the publishers find the work to meet the patronage they anticipate, FOUR PARTS will be issued monthly.

3d. The whole will be completed in seven volumes, or forty eight parts.

The paper on which the above is now printing, has been made expressly for the purpose; the present parts may, therefore, be considered a fair specimen, in every respect, of the whole work; but, should dissatisfaction arise with any subscriber, owing to an inferior article being offered, he may discontinue at any time, and have the amount paid returned.

Note.—The publication of the first volume is deferred until the receipt of the Biography, Private Correspondence, and the New Edition of the Author's Poetical Works, with 'contemporary criticism—various readings—and correspondence with some of the most eminent persons of the time when the Poems first appeared,' now in the course of publication in England.

Volume 1 will be ornamented with an excellent Portrait of Sir Walter Scott.

THE CROSS CUT CANAL.—We publish, to day, the proceedings of a meeting, held at Warren, Ohio, in reference to this great and indispensible improvement, and invite our citizens to deliberate upon the propriety of sending delegates. No doubt much intelligence will be collected there which will be very useful.

ELECTION RETURNS.—We give the returns, unofficial, but probably very nearly correct, from all the townships except four, which leaves no doubt of the election of the whole combination ticket—three Van Buren men, Robinson, Scott, and Kerr and one National Republican, Hilands. This is, however, by no means any evidence of the strength of Mr. Van Buren's friends. The National Republicans probably polled four hundred votes for the combination ticket, and Samuel M'Kean has still some friends.

In Allegheny there prevailed an opinion that Mr. Robinson would favor the removal of the Court House to that town; and in Elizabeth township, an impression was created that he would favor a new county, of which that township would form a part, and Elizabethtown the county seat. All these causes, connected with the calumnies circulated against Mr. Irwin, co-operated to give the ticket a strength far beyond that of Mr. Van Buren's friends.

We labored honestly against this result—many of those with whom we have generally acted, supported the successful ticket—time will show whether they have reason to rejoice in their triumph.

☞We have been favored with an interesting letter, in relation to the main line of the state improvements, which shall appear in our paper to morrow.

From the Warren (O.) News Letter, Oct. 8.

CANAL MEETING.

On the evening of the 1st October, instant, a very respectable number of the citizens of this county met at the court house, in this village, in pursuance to a notice of that day, published in the Lews Letter.

General Simon Perkins, on motion of Elisha Whittlesey, Esq. was appointed chairman—David Tod, Secretary. The notice above alluded to was read; Judge Pease addressed the meeting on the subject for which it had been convened; followed by Judge King, one of the commissioners named in the charter, who gave an exposition of what the commissioners had done, under their appointment.

On request of R. P. Spalding, Esq. the Secretary read a portion of a letter from Gen. M'Coy, of Pennsylvania, to one of the Commissioners, in which he observes—"that from personal observation, as well as from surveys and reports submitted by Mr. Sloan, he does not entertain a single doubt as to the feasibility of connecting the Beaver division with the Ohio canal, at Akron."

The following resolutions, offered by J. Crowell, Esq. were severally read and adopted:

Resolved, That a committee of three individuals be appointed to frame and report resolutions relative to the object of this meeting for the consideration of the same.

Resolved, That the said committee be appointed by the chairman of this meeting.

Whereupon, Calvin Pease, Elisha Whittlesey, and Leicester King, Esqs. were appointed from the chair; who withdrew for a short time. During their absence, the meeting was severally addressed by George Tod, Eli Baldwin, Eben Newton, and Wm. L. Knight, Esqr. on the importance of the contemplated enterprize, to the cities of Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, the inhabitants of the Mahoning valley, and the people to the west and north west, generally.

E. Whittlesey, Esq. in behalf of the last named committee, made the following report, which was promptly, and unanimously agreed to:

Resolved, It is expedient to appoint delegates from this county, to meet such delegates as may be appointed by the counties in Pennsylvania and Ohio, interested in the construction of a canal, to intersect the canal in Pennsylvania.

Resolved, That the Convention meet at Warren, on the second Wednesday of November next.

Resolved, That the counties in Pennsylvania and Ohio, interested in the contemplated canal, be requested to appoint delegates to attend said Convention.

Resolved, That Calvin Pease, Simon Perkins, Leicester King, Eli Baldwin, Wm. Rayen, Zalmon Fitch, Tracy Bronson, Ambrose Hart, J. P. Kirtland, and David Tod, Esqs. be the delegates from this county.

Resolved, That the proceedings of this meeting be published in the papers of this village, with a request that editors of papers published in places interested in the contemplated canal give the same an insertion in their respective papers.

E. Whittlesey, Esq. followed by Mr. William Bell, from Pittsburgh, who happened to be present, addressed the meeting on the importance of the proposed canal, to the trade of Pennsylvania and Ohio, generally.

On motion, the meeting was adjourned.

WELLAND CANAL.—Scarcely had the culvert at foot of the mountain, which gave way a short time since, been repaired so as to admit the free passage of vessels, ere another serious disaster occurred to suspend the navigation of the canal. On the night of Thursday, the 5th, a schooner came up from Port Dalhousie to the lock near Messrs. Bowrey & Butler's mill, and attempted to pass through, without the assistance of the lock tender, who neglected to accompany her up, as was his duty; in doing which, the captain of the vessel, finding some difficulty, applied the windlass, and succeeded so far in removing one of the upper gates as to admit a rush of water upon the others, which carried away and destroyed the whole, besides injuring the schooner. This lock is one of the largest class on the canal, and is also the first one below the junction of the 12 mile creek; consequently, is most difficult to repair. But we are happy to learn, that through the active personal superintendence of the President of the Company, Wm. H. Merritt, Esq., the new gates are in such a state of forwardness as to warrant the belief that they will be completed so as to admit the passage of vessels by Monday, the 16th inst., at farthest.

It is at such times as these, that the manifest importance of the Welland canal is forced upon the public mind, by observing the congregation of water crafts at each extremity of a breach in the work, which has been of several days standing—upwards of twenty vessels having already arrived in the vicinity of this village, and more are coming in every day. In fact, the business on the canal has increased this season beyond the anticipations of its most sanguine friends.

Progress of America during the last Century.—But general expressions can give no rules of our progress. Fancy itself flags, and lingers, and halts behind the truth. Look only at our population. A hundred years ago, it did not exceed 700,000. At this day, it is more than 13,000,000.—Consider, too, the difference between our progress in this respect, during the first half and the last half of the century just ended. The first 50 years added to the existing population 2,000,000, making in all nearly 3,000,000 of inhabitants in 1782.—The last 50 years have added to that number more than 10,000,000. The whole shipping of America, a century ago, was not 100,000 tons. At present, though the revolutionary war almost swept it from the ocean, and it suffered greatly in the last, it approaches 2,000,000 tons. In the whale fishery, alone, 1,300 tons only of shipping were then employed, and it now gives occupation to 90,000 tons. Our whole exports and imports, which did not exceed one million sterling, have increased twenty fold. There are no sufficient data for estimating our progress in other respects; but who can look around him without perceiving, that in domestic comfort, in internal improvements, in wealth, in knowledge, and in all the arts of life, it has been far more rapid even than in population or in trade; and that we have advanced with constantly accelerated speed during the whole period. It began with achieving the work of a century in a generation, and it seems to end with crowding the work of generations into single years.—Grey.

Important Discovery.—Extract of a letter from Col. Charles Morgan, of Louisiana, giving an account of a method of preventing decay in timber, published in the Washington city Examiner.

About thirty years ago, on the borders of Lake Erie, and also near Pittsburgh, on the Alleghany river, and at various other places on the Ohio and Mississippi, I observed some beautiful specimens of petrifactions, and further, wherever those were found, limestone rock existed there, or in the immediate neighborhood or vicinity. My mind being naturally inquisitive, led me partly from curiosity and amusement, to inquire into the causes of the chemical phenomena in nature, which produced such surprising results. As years grew on apace, it became more a favorite study with me, and better in my power to try experiments, and for several years last past, I have paid closer attention to the subject, and have arrived at conclusions much to my satisfaction. The result has been, that I am now in possession of some beautiful specimens of substances resembling stone, prepared from different kinds of wood, by a process which has hitherto been overlooked, or not thought worth attention. By the same process, also rot of every kind of wood, whether it be fresh cut or seasoned, is entirely prevented for a length of time, not beyond credibility perhaps, but certainly for a very considerable period longer than the wood would otherwise remain entire in any situation in which it might be placed.

My first object was to destroy the ligneous acid, and by that means prevent vegetable fermentation, and putrefaction or decomposition from taking place, at the same time to fill the interstices of the wood with a substance that would, after having neutralized the acids, prevent a future recurrence of the process of decomposition, not interfering in the least with the principle of elasticity and cohesiveness that exists in the fibre.

All this, sir, I think I have accomplished by means of the hydrate of lime, and on this point I wish you to be as explicit as possible. While at Washington city, in April last, and finding nothing of the kind in the Patent Office, I complied with the usual forms of the law in such cases, made and provided, and obtained letters patent for my discovery.

Traveling in England, a century ago.—In December, 1703, Charles III., King of Spain, slept at Petworth, on his way from Portsmouth to Windsor, and Prince George of Denmark went to meet him there, by desire of the Queen. The distance from Windsor to Petworth is about forty miles.—In the relation of the journey, given by one of the Prince's attendants, he states—"We set out at six in the morning, by torch light, to go to Petworth, and did not get out of the coaches (save only when we were overturned or stuck fast in the mire) till we arrived at our journey's end. 'Twas a hard service for the Prince to sit fourteen hours in the coach without eating any thing, and passing through the worst way I ever saw in my life. We were thrown but once indeed in going, but our coach, which was the leading one, and his Highness' body coach would have suffered very much, if the nimble boors of Sussex had not frequently poised it, or supported it on their shoulders, from Godalming almost to Petworth, and the nearer we approached the Duke's house, the more inaccessible it seemed to be. The last 9 miles of the way cost us 6 hours time to conquer them; and indeed we had never done it, if our good master had not several times lent us a pair of horses out of his own coach, whereby we were enabled to trace out the way for him." Afterwards writing of his departure on the following day from Petworth to Guildford, and thence to Windsor, he says—"I saw him (the Prince) no more, till I found him at supper at Windsor; for there we were overturned (as we had been once before the same morning) and broke our coach; my Lord Delaware had the same fate, and so had several others."—Annals of Queen Anne, Vol. 2, Appendix, No. 3.

Mr. Alfred Bludworth is about commencing the Herculean work of arresting one of the branches of Red river. Rifle Canes.—In no field of invention, scarcely, has human ingenuity been more striking, than in that of which "destructiveness" is the object: as if to prove what is, we believe, as literally true of man as of the bull dog or the game cock, that he is a pugnacious animal. Among the latest of these contrivances (a Yankee notion, too,) is that of the rifle cane. It presents the appearance of a short, stout walking stick, with an ivory head piece. Upon drawing back this head piece, the lock is uncovered; and, by the same act, the ferule at the bottom of the cane drops on a hinge, and uncovers the muzzle of the gun. The charge is inserted at the breech, as in screw barrel pistols, and the percussion cap being fitted, the piece is raised by the ivory head to the eye; the barrel, by means of a joint behind the trigger, falls to the level of the eye; the cock springs back; through two small holes in it which range with a sight on the end of the barrel, aim is taken; and then, applying the left hand as usual, so as to steady the gun—it is fired. We believe, within ordinary range, its fire would be found quite accurate. The advantage of such a contrivance as this, is, that your walking cane becomes, at need, the most formidable weapon of offence or defence; and such is the construction of the piece, that it may be carried and left loaded without any danger whatever. The inventor is Mr. Lambert, of Massachusetts.—N. Y. American.

The German Wool Fairs.—The result of German Wool Fairs have proved more advantageous to the growers than could have been anticipated, though it was generally expected that prices would be considerably higher than last year. The first fairs, viz: Breslaw, &c. were comparatively the cheapest, but the more it was manifested decidedly that the actual want of wool did rather surmount the quantity produced, prices went higher, so that at the last fairs, a rise of 30 to 40 per cent. on last year's prices took place. This present moment there is scarcely any thing left in the first hands, and even the stock in the hands of the dealers is much smaller than we recollect having seen at any former period. In fact, the flower of the wool has already found its way either to the hands of our manufacturers, or is gone to the English market, so that little good wool can be farther expected from this quarter. The consumption of wool in Germany and Netherlands has increased amazingly, and we safely say, that at the very utmost, only one fourth of the wool produced in Germany is exported to England. The German manufacturers go on very briskly, the number of looms increases daily, and if they continue to proceed so for a few years they will be able to consume the whole produce of German wool, without being obliged to have recourse to the English market. The manufacture of woollen yarn had been quite neglected, but within the last few years it has been very much cultivated, and has made such a rapid progress that there are now worsted yarn spinners in Germany who consume from 30 to 40,000 cwt. a year; combing wool is therefore very much looked after, and there will be a deficiency in the quantity imported into England. Things have changed now, and instead, as at former times, of the English being the rulers at the German wool fairs, the German and Belgian manufacturers are predominant and pick the flower of the wool, as they are able to afford higher prices than English buyers.—Letter from Leipsic.

The engineer on board the St. George has just applied a very useful piece of machinery for supplying water to the boilers of that boat, when the engines are not at work, at any time that there is steam in the boilers. Hitherto, when the engines have been stopped, a portion of steam has been blown off, and the water supplied by means of a manual forcing pump. Now, by the addition of a small cylinder and piston, with a pipe connected with the main steam channel of the large engine, the steam usually discharged by the safety valve is usefully expended in keeping up the required supply of water, thus saving a waste of labor, and securing, at the same time, a more certain and steady supply of water, than it generally otherwise furnished. If this experiment is successful, as the machinery is simple, and requires but a small space, it will, doubtless, be pretty generally adopted by the boats on the river.—Montreal Daily Adv.

The revenues of the United States are now placed in a very extraordinary and precarious situation. While they were deposited in the Bank of the United States, they were surrounded by securities. They could not be removed in mass except in the manner prescribed by law for causes to be submitted to Congress. No part of them, even to the amount of a dollar, could be withdrawn but by an appropriation by Congress, and then attested by vouchers to prevent fraud or misappropriation. How do they stand now? If placed in state banks they have no permanency there, for the power that puts them there, may remove them at pleasure, with or without reason. They are as much at the disposal of the President as if they were put into his private chest, and the key was in his pocket. The case then stands thus. Ten dollars of the public money cannot be taken from its place of deposit, without an appropriation by law, and the attestation of various official vouchers. But the whole mass may be disposed of by the President, according to his pleasure, without the assent or knowledge of Congress, and without any voucher but his order. No king that we have ever heard of has possessed such an absolute unchecked control over the public money.—Nat. Gaz.

THE NEXT SPEAKER.

During the last summer, a very spirited electioneering campaign was carried on for the next Speaker in Congress, and many letters have been written from Saratoga, the head quarters of intrigue and political bargaining, on the subject of filling that chair. It appears, however, to be settled beyond dispute, that Judge Wayne, of Georgia, has been selected as the Regency candidate. Mr. Polk, of Tennessee, however, a strong friend of General Jackson, and moreover, an able man, thinks his claims are equally powerful. An Eastern, a Southern, and a Western man may also be added to the list, and, in the spirit of contest, we should not be surprised if Mr. Stevenson should again be chosen to settle the conflicting claims, and after appointing his committees, and arranging business, he will accept the mission to London, and thus render the success of Judge Wayne less doubtful. Too much management, the political error of the day, may, however, derange all these plans. It appears that Judge Sutherland, of Philadelphia, is a candidate again for Congress. Should he be elected, we have no doubt that he will be a candidate for Speaker, and a first rate Speaker he will make; but if the Judge has any assurance of the support of the Regency, or the K. C. at Washington, he may make up his mind to be cheated—They are bound, hand and foot, to Judge Wayne, of Georgia, but if Judge Sutherland was from any other State than Pennsylvania, which appears to be no great favorite at Court, his chance to cut in might be good; but, as our old and valued friend Richie says, "nous verrons."—*N. Stocking Factory.—Mr. Johnston commenced the manufacture of stockings in this town, one year ago last May. He makes cotton, woollen, and worsted hosiery. The demand for his work is now greater than he can supply, although he has eleven frames in constant operation, which turn out 1,200 pairs per month. This demand shows the estimation in which his goods are held.

He now consumes at his establishment two hundred pounds of woollen yarn per month, which amount he finds it difficult to procure.—Portsmouth Journal.

CAUTION TO MOTHERS—Effects of Maternal Excitement on the Health of Infants.—In the report of Mr. Wardrop's Lecture on Surgical operations, published in the Lancet, it is stated, "The only circumstance of importance to be particularly attended to, when operating on an infant, is the management of the nurse. I am convinced that in many cases where operations on infants have proved fatal, the death has been caused by the changes produced in the nurse's milk, in consequence of the mental agitation which, as you may suppose, is often produced in the mind, either of the nurse or mother, when an operation on her young charge becomes necessary. I have seen several remarkable instances of this kind, and similar cases are recorded by authors. The first case which came under my notice took place some years ago, in an infant from whom I had removed a small—very hard tumor, which was situated behind the ear. No fever or inflammation supervened, and after suppuration had been established, and the wound was granulating in the most healthy manner, the child died suddenly of convulsions On inquiry, I found that the mother had been thrown into a violent fit of passion, late at night, and that she suckled her infant soon afterwards, immediately subsequent to which the fatal convulsion succeeded. In another instance I was sent for in great haste, to see an infant in a convulsion fit, and on inquiry found that the nurse who had been employed to suckle the infant, had been guilty of some misconduct for which she had been severely reprimanded. Soon after this mental agitation the infant was suckled by her, and that occurrence was followed by the convulsion attack referred to.—The late Sir Richard Croft, who had the immediate care of this child, informed me that he had frequently known similar cases, and that all mischief was to be attributed to the pernicious effects which moral excitement produces on the milk of the nurse, an effect with which in some degree every one is familiar. Mr. North, in his treatise on the "Convulsions of Infants," makes allusion to the circumstance, and has mentioned examples of it. Ever since the occurrence of the cases now mentioned, I have considered it of great importance to arrange, previous to an operation on an infant, how the nursing was afterwards to be conducted, and have taken care that neither the mother nor the hired nurse should be agitated by the screams of the child, or that if they be at all alarmed by them, the child shall not be allowed to suckle until all effects of such agitation shall have ceased."

From the New York American.

We make a valuable extract from the last Gazette, showing the character of the individual who, it is rumored, is to become the Superintendent of the public funds of the United States.—Amos Kendall for negotiator, and Reuben M. Whitney for Superintendent!

"It is stated that Reuben M. Whitney has been appointed by the President, superintendent of the government in the deposits in the State Banks."

We find the above paragraph in the National Gazette. From the well known respectability of the editor of that Journal, we presume he had good grounds for making the statement. In order, therefore, to let our readers know the character of the individual to whom the President has committed this high trust, we make the following extract of the report of the Minority of the Select Committee, appointed to examine the books and proceedings of the Bank of the United States.—This *report was drawn up by Mr. M'Duffie, and signed by himself, Messrs. Adams and Watmough, and submitted to the House of Representatives, on the 11th of May, 1832.

EXTRACT.—"An informer and witness, by the name of Whitney, who had formerly been a Director of the Bank, was produced, who declared, upon oath, that, in July, 1824, two of the Cashiers of the Bank, and one of the discount Clerks, had informed him that Thomas Biddle & Co. had been in the habit of drawing money out of the Bank on a deposit of Stock in the Teller's drawer, without paying interest; and that the President of the Bank had discounted two notes, one for Thomas Biddle & Co. and one for Charles Biddle, without the authority of the Directors. This witness stated that he went with these officers of the Bank, and examined the teller's drawer and the discount book, and found the facts which had been stated to him verified by the examination. He also stated, to the additional certainty to his averments, that he made a memorandum at the time, with the dates of the transactions, which memorandum he produced to the committee. Having thus unalterably fixed the date of the transaction, as if by some fatality, he went on to say, he immediately proceeded to the room of Mr. Biddle, the President, and remonstrated with him against these irregular proceedings; and that Mr. Biddle promised him that they should not occur again.

"Mr. Biddle was present during the examination of this witness. On that day, being on oath, he said, that he was utterly astonished at the testimony of the witness, and could only oppose to it his solemn declaration, that there was not one word of truth in it from the beginning to the end. He added, that from the relation in which the witness stood to him, he would have sunk into the earth, sooner than he would have dared to come to him with such a remonstrance as he pretended to have made. The officers of the Bank, from whom the witness alleged he had derived this information, were examined, and all of them positively contradicted him. They testified, and demonstrated from the books, that Thomas Biddle & Co. had never obtained money, in any instance, without paying interest, and the two notes, which Whitney asserted to have been discounted by the President alone, had been discounted regularly by the Directors.

"In the interval between the adjournment of the Committee that day, and its meeting the next, a member of the board of directors, suggested to Mr. Biddle that he was, about the time of the alleged transaction, in the city of Washington. On examining the journals of the Board and the letter book it was found, by entries and letters, that for several days previous to the alleged interview between the President and Whitney, and for several days afterwards, the President was absent on a visit to this city, on the business of the Bank, and Gen. Cadwalader was acting in his place!

"Thus was this artfully devised story, which was intended to blast the reputation of a high minded and honorable man, through one of those extraordinary interpositions by which Providence sometimes confounds the contrivances of the wicked, made to recoil upon the head of its inventor, who must forever stand forth as a blasted monument of the speedy and retributive justice of heaven. It is important, here, to add that the President was in this city, not only at the time of the alleged interview, but at the very time when the notes of Thos. Biddle & Co., and Charles Biddle were discounted, which Whitney swore were discounted by the President alone."

*The Report was drawn by J. Q. Adams, not Mr. M'Duffie.—[Ed. N. Y. Am.]

Mechanics' Magazine, and Register of Improvements and Inventions. To the Mechanics of the United States---In this populous and enlightened country, almost every description of persons can obtain knowledge and amusement connected with their peculiar pursuits, through the medium of the Journal or Magazine, especially devoted to their interests. The Theologian, the Farmer, the Philosopher, the Sportsman, and even the Plough Boy, has each his Journal, where he can find a record of the passing events of the day, connected with his peculiar avocations and recreations. Hitherto, the Mechanics (who form a large and most important portion of the community) have had no Journal, to which they could turn, with the certainty of finding that information they desire, no periodical of which they could say: 'This is ours, and for us.' In the hope that the attempt to supply such a want at a price so reasonable as to be within the reach of all, will meet with your active support, the subscriber proposes to publish, on the first day of each month, a Mechanics' Magazine. It will contain a well digested selection of the most useful and interesting articles in the London Mechanics' Magazine, London Register of Arts and Sciences, Repertory of Inventions, Library of Useful Knowledge, Journal of the Franklin Institute, and o her works, connected with the arts and manufactures, published in this country and in Europe, accompanied with numerous and well executed Engravings. Its pages will be open for the communications of all, and especially for those of the practical artisan, to whose interest it will be particularly devoted. The Mechanics' Magazine will contain, also, a due portion of the occurrences of the month, Scientific and Literary Reviews of Books, Anecdotes, Economical Receipts, Reports of the state of Mechanics' Institutions, and other Scientific Societies in this state and other countries. To be published monthly. Each succeeding number will contain 64 pages, handsomely printed, and stitched in a neat cover. Six numbers will form a volume, for which an index and title page will be supplied, and also a Portrait of some distinguished Mechanic, as a Frontispiece. Terms, $3 per annum, in advance.

A person who uses this Medicamentum will not require the use of the lancet, or any means of the healing art. It restores and revives the animal spirits, invigorates the system, removes nervous tremors, obtunds rheumatic and anthritic pains, and prevents their return. It cleanses the stomach of all morbid humors, which cause indigestion, acidities, headach, and lowness of spirits; cures all bilious disorders, and all cholics of the stomach and bowels, almost immediately; inspires cheerfulness; gives comfort to the dropsical; takes away palpitation of the heart; gives circulation to the blood; restores bloom to the sallow or sickly cheek, and plumpness to the meagre habit; purges without pain, and banishes all cause of fever of every kind. It acts on the stomach, that great reservoir of the human system, a diseased state of which causes all diseases. No alteration in the usual habits of life is required, but the abstaining from distilled ardent spirits.

CERTIFICATE,

From Rev. Derick Lansing, D. D., Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Utica.

Utica, Jan. 6, 1830.

To Dr. Hitchcock.—Dear Sir: I have always been one of the number of those who have placed little confidence in nostrums or specifics, and for this reason, although I saw your advertisement of the Welch Medicamentum, I could not bring my mind to consent to use it. My sufferings, from indigestion, during the past summer, were so severe, as materially to affect my comfort, and my capacity for usefulness. I have reason to thank you, sir, that, on hearing of the state of my health, you kindly sent me your Medicamentum. I have taken it faithfully, and with entire success. I have not been visited with one of those turns of distress, which before were weekly periodical, since I began to take your valuable medicine. Could I receive the same relief which I have hitherto experienced, on condition of taking it for life, I should cheerfully comply with such condition. Your's, very truly, D. C. LANSING.

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC ELIXER.

ONE of the most agreeable and efficacious Medicines ever discovered for the permanent cure of those chronic states of derangement of the stomach, constituting that miserable disease called Dyspepsia.

The basis of this Elixer is vegetables, and perfectly innocent in its operation; it destroys that sour state of the stomach, the instant it is taken, and stops the morbid secretion, by giving strength to the muscular fibre of that important organ, by which means the peristaltic motion of the intestines is increased, and the costiveness obviated; a new action is given to the system, which puts an end to a train of distressing nervous sensations.

Another form of the disease in which the Elixer is admirably calculated to relieve, is the decline of fever, where the stomach will not bear the ordinary strengthening medicines indicated in such cases, it has the surprising effect of giving vigor, and restoring the natural secretions of the body, without increasing the febrile state. Not the least danger is to be apprehended from exposure to cold, while under the use of this medicine, nor will it interrupt necessary employment of the patient a single hour.

☞A number of cases of cures performed by the Anti-Dyspeptic Elixer in the vicinity of Pittsburgh can be given.

GEO. W. CARPENTER'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF LIVERWORT,

A SAFE and Valuable Medicine for Coughs, Spitting of Blood, Consumption, and Liver Complaints.

Most of the medicines made use of for the above diseases are of a stimulating nature, composed generally of Resins and Balsams, in alcoholic solutions, which, although sometimes givingt emporary relief, in almost every instance where they are freely used, aggravate the disease, and reduce the strength of the patient.

This article possesses superior advantages over these preparations, its action being of a tonic, invigorating and strengthening nature, thus overcoming the disease by promoting expectoration, and gradually increasing the strength of the patient, and thus, without being attended with any unpleasant effects: it also agrees with the stomach, in a cases, and is a pleasant medicine to take.

Rights to use the machine in that part of the United States, named above, will be sold by the single county or in larger districts. As it is presumed that no one will purchase without seeing the machine at work, a description of it is deemed unnecessary. Should any person, however, wish to purchase, and find it inconvenient to visit the places where it is in operation, a machine will be furnished, warranted to plane, tongue and groove, and bring to an exact width and thickness, a white pine board of 12 feet long, and of any width from 1 to 14 inches, in one minute and ten seconds, or an oak board of the same dimensions in 2 minutes and 10 seconds. Machines may be seen at work in the cities of New Orleans, Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and others at the south and east, at Wheeling, Virginia, and at the saw mill of Messrs. Irwin & Herron, in this city.

Persons desiring to purchase will have the certificates of scientific and practical men who have seen it at work, in the different places in which it has been put up, forwarded to them. They give their opinion as to the great value of the invention, state the time they have seen boards dressed by this machine, and describe the quality of the work as compared with that performed by hand labor.
